Unlock the power of data for human services IT modernization

Modernization starts with clean data.

Across child support, welfare, SNAP, Medicaid, disability, and public health, agencies are investing in transformative IT projects. But without strong data hygiene, even the most advanced systems fall short.

Don't let bad data derail your mission.

At Thomson Reuters, we help Human Services agencies:

- Prepare for modernization with data cleanup and identity resolution
- Optimize resources by reducing duplication and improving data quality
- Enhance outcomes with accurate, consolidated records across programs

From planning to post-implementation, we're with you every step of the way.
